

Krynera Privacy Policy

Krynera collects personal data such as email address, energy levels, menstrual cycle information, and task-related data.

This data is used to provide personalized productivity insights and improve user experience.

All data is securely stored and never shared without user consent.

Users can request access, modification, or deletion of their data at any time.

Krynera does not provide medical advice. Information is for guidance only.

Contact: support@krynera.com